The President closes his letter by congratulating the country on its general prosperity, and then warms the voters of the nation that white all the candidates may be honest, capable, patriotic, still a change is not a good thing because it means a change of administrative policy, involving a stoppage and new business adjustments.

As thewed by the Policicians.

"A campaign document, pure and simple" that is how President Harrison's letter of acceptance is characterized and accepted by the politicians.

The document did not create the interess it was calculated to grouse, not great in secretary charles Fester, senator Hiscook and Warner Miller, who were at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning, and who said they had not read it and thereore had no country to express. As thewed by the Politicians.
